For a man what is seeking rest Mr. Chas. M. Schwab seems to be pursuing it in a somewhat strenuous way.

Uncle Joe Cannon appears to be the big gun in Speakership racket. He seems to stand the best showing so far.

The Republican party in Kansas seems to have absorbed the Populist party, which is simply a reminiscence out there.

Mrs. Hetty Green is pretty well fixed and now she is about to provide herself with a church by foreclosing a mortgage on one in Chicago.

It is said that the Republicans spent $350,000 in the late election in New York and the Democrats $140,000, so that Odell's 10,000 majority cost the party about $35 a vote.

England must have an unhealthy climate for horses if it be true as stated that she imports 324,000 annually. But as beef has become high in Britain, perhaps the butchers find use for them.

A Hoboken, N. J. woman found a fellow who could build nice pies and she made sure of him by marrying him right away. Now maybe he will not take so much interest in the pie business.

It may be incidentally remarked that the federal office holder who was bounced in Alabama for too much "pernicious activity" in the "lily white" movement didn't get his discharge until after the election and they saw how the "lily white" business panned out.

W. Waldorf Astor couldn't buy a title in England and couldn't even buy the privilege of putting an "Hon." handle to his name. Why, he could have gotten that by staying at home, and buying a seat in the legislature. What fools some men are.

By deeds filed for record yesterday at the Court House the following property transfers are noted:

About Telephone Matters.

Manager McManus said yesterday that he hoped to have a force of workmen begin on the laying of the underground wire system for the Bell Telephone Co., the last of this or the first of next week. The first work will be on the north side of Princess street, from Front. The long distance line yesterday was still out of "whack" but a new force of linemen will start out from Wilmington to-day and climb each pole from here to Goldsboro, if need be, to find the trouble. Yesterday Manager McManus conversed with Atlanta Ga., as well as with Charlotte and Raleigh.

Fire at Fort Caswell.

The commissioned officers' quarters at Fort Caswell, occupied by Lieut. John Green and Surgeon C. J. Manly, were destroyed by fire which broke out from an unknown source Friday night about 10 o'clock. The officers were at the officers' mess at the time, and lost nearly all their personal effects. The damage is roughly estimated at about $6,000. The quarters were situated just at the head of the gangway leading to the pier, and consisted of a new modern building in every respect.

Extend River Interests.

It is learned that Capt. Edgar D. Williams will shortly purchase a new tug and dredge boat for use on the Cape Fear river and will in other ways greatly enlarge his river interests. His son, Mr. James S. Williams, has been associated with him in the new undertaking and has already begun work.

Candidate for Doorkeeper.

Esquire G. W. Bornemann, the well known Fifth Ward justice, yesterday informed a reporter that he would be a candidate for doorkeeper of the House at the forthcoming session of the Legislature. He says he is confident he is qualified for the position, and can leave his magisterial duties in good hands while he is in Raleigh.

W. L. I. Election Ordered.

At the regular drill last night of the Wilmington Light Infantry, First Sergeant J. McRee Hatch read a general order from headquarters calling an election of company officers on Thursday night, Nov. 27. The election of Second Regiment officers will take place at Goldsboro, Dec. 4th.

THE COUNTY SCHOOLS

New Hanover Board of Education in Regular Monthly Session Monday Night.

STATE SUPERINTENDENTS.

Prof. Washington Catlett Will Attend Meeting in Raleigh This Week—Gift By Huyler Cocoa Works to Rural White Institutions.

The New Hanover County Board of Education met Monday night, those present having been Col. W. A. Johnson chairman, and Capt. Donald MacRae, members of the Board; County Superintendent Washington Catlett, County Treasurer H. McL. Green and Mr. Samuel Northrop, Capt. W. R. Kenan and Mr. C. W. Worth, composing city school committee No. 2.

The usual routine business was disposed of and the visiting school committee then made a very comprehensive report of the work accomplished during the past Summer in the district embraced by the committee's jurisdiction. Very many improvements have been made, notably the building of an annex to the Union school and the bringing of all the institutions up to a very high standard. The report was received with much gratification by the Board and the Committee was assured of the Board's continued substantial co-operation, so that all the schools may be continued until the end of the term up to the present high order of their excellence.

The monthly report of County Treasurer Green was presented. It shows a balance of $14,654.18 to the credit of the school fund on Nov. 1.

Superintendent Catlett presented a very comprehensive report, showing very material progress in the conduct of the rural schools. During the first month of the new scholastic year there was an enrollment of 851 pupils in all schools, of which 401 were whites and 450 negroes. The average attendance each day was 603 pupils, of whom 303 were white and 299 colored. The report shows for the first month of the new year a larger enrollment and a much better average attendance than for the second month of the last term.

Prof. Catlett has recently received by express from the Huyler's Cocoa and Chocolate Works, of New York City, a handsome gift to the museum of each of the white schools in the county. The gift consists of a number of charts, showing life in Venezuela and the production of cocoa in all its forms. There are also in neat receptacles samples of the cocoa and interesting information about the island and people who inhabit it. Of course the outfit to each school is primarily for an advertisement for the company's manufactured product, but the collection is even more than that and is valuable.

Prof. Catlett leaves this morning for Raleigh to attend the meeting of School Superintendents of the State in that city during the remaining three days of this week. The State Superintendent has honored Prof. Catlett by appointing him one of the leaders in the discussion to-morrow night on County Teachers' Associations, Teachers' Libraries and Courses of Study for Teachers.

The meeting promises to be a most profitable one for the teachers of the entire State.

The proposition to increase the capital stock of the Murchison National Bank from $200,000 to $300,000 was almost unanimously adopted at a special meeting of the stockholders of that popular institution yesterday morning at 11 o'clock.

Col. Walker Taylor was called to the chair and Mr. J. V. Grainger, cashier of the bank, acted as secretary. It was ascertained that 434 shares were represented in person and 1,341 by proxy. The meeting was thereupon declared duly organized for business and the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That under the provisions of the act of May 1st, 1886, the capital stock of this association be increased in the sum of $100,000, making the total capital $300,000.

Resolved, That the officers of the association be directed to offer the new stock to all the present stockholders ratably at $130 per share, to be accepted by Nov. 20th, 1902, and paid for by Dec. 1st, 1902.

Resolved further, That any stock not so accepted by the present stockholders by the 20th of Nov. may be disposed of by the officers of the association at $130 a share not later than Dec. 1st, 1902.

MATERIAL FOR FIFTH ST. BRIDGE

Part of the Superstructure Was Placed on Grounds Yesterday—Abutments.

"When will work begin on the new Fifth street bridge?" is a question that has been asked and answered indefinitely for some time.

The people of the First Ward are exceedingly anxious about the matter and they have a right to be, for it has been many months since the contract was awarded. They have been patient, however, and yesterday their patience was rewarded by seeing a part of the material for the superstructure placed on the ground.

The Atlantic Coast Line agreed to construct the abutments for the bridge and these have been in place for several months.

With the arrival of the first instalment of material for the superstructure, it is expected that the work will be pushed to completion right away.

JAILED YESTERDAY FOR BURGLARY.

Sampson County Negro Committed Without Bail From Municipal Court.

J. H. Williams, the Sampson county negro arrested Monday afternoon by Policeman H. P. Merritt on the charge of burglarizing the apartments of another negro named Wallace Miles, who lives in Thompson's alley, was arraigned before Mayor pro tem. Cooper in the municipal court yesterday and held for the grand jury without bail.

He will be tried for his life, as there were persons sleeping in Miles' room when Williams entered by cutting the edge of the door and lifting up the latch. Williams had previously roomed with Miles, but had moved elsewhere several days before. Williams' case will make four capital ones for trial at the term of New Hanover Superior Court to be convened Monday week.

THE LOCAL SHIPPING NEWS.

German Steamer Sails for Tampa—Oil Barge Ashore Down the River.

German steamer Carl, Capt. Joehimsen, having finished discharging her cargo, cleared yesterday, light, for Tampa, Fla.

The steamers Hurt, Highlander and Johnson, of the river fleet, were all in port yesterday, and cleared in the afternoon for their return trips.

Standard Oil Barge No. 93, while proceeding up the river Monday afternoon, went ashore at Lilliput, off Fort Fisher, and had not been gotten off yesterday afternoon. The harbor tugs went down at 3 P. M. to pull on her. They expected to get her off on high tide last night.

THE ATLANTIC FISHERIES COMPANY

Will Erect $50,000 Rendering Plant in Beaufort, N. C., Harbor.

A special to the STAR last night has the following in reference to the Atlantic Fisheries Co., which operates a large plant at Old Brunswick, down the river:

"BEAUFORT, N. C., Nov. 11.—The Atlantic Fisheries Company, of New York, will erect at once at a cost of $50,000 a fish factory at this place. The site secured is the Christopher DeLamar Jones Island, just off Beaufort harbor."

Mozart Symphony Club.

The Mozart Symphony Club at the Y. M. C. A. to-morrow night will render popular and classical music on musical instruments that have been popular for more than three centuries. The Viol da Gamba (10 strings, used 200 years ago) was invented in the seventeenth century by an English prisoner, who was granted life and freedom as a reward for his work. Mr. Blodeck, of the Mozart's, is said to be the only artist playing this instrument in the United States in public at the present time.

Fell Through Glass Window.

Wm. Camble, colored, was drunk Monday afternoon and fell through one of the show windows in Mr. L. W. Davis' store, on Market street. He was arrested later at Front street market house and in the Mayor's court yesterday he was required to pay $3.50 for the broken window and the cost in the case.

CARNIVAL OPINIONS.

Some Say They Were Benefited; Others Say That They ere Not.

THE WHOLESALE MERCHANTS

As a Rule There Is No Complaint From Them—Restaurant Proprietors Did a Land Office Business—More Strangers Than for Years.

There is a variety of opinion among business men as to the benefits derived by the city in holding the late street carnival in Wilmington. It is the same old question that bobs up in every town after the "ball is over" and it is well nigh impossible to get at anything like a concensus of views.

From the questions and answers propounded and received from representative business men in all lines, it would seem safe to say that the largest wholesale dry goods houses profited by the fair. Messrs. I. M. Bear & Co. say they had a splendid trade for the two days when the weather was good and that they saw more country merchants here during the week than they saw any one week before in ten years. The Rheinstein Dry Goods Company said that their business picked up some and Messrs. Morris Bear & Bros. say the Carnival brought them some business and they would have done better had it not rained. Mr. Geo. O. Gaylord, who sells at both wholesale and retail, said his business was splendid and he made good money. The C. W. Polvogt Co. said its country trade was excellent and Messrs. J. H. Rehder & Co. said the same.

Opinions of the wholesale grocers differ as to the benefit derived by them while the retail grocers are almost a unit that they were harmed. The jewellers and stationers noted no improvement while the drug store proprietors in the Carnival district were immensely benefitted.

The saloon men differ as to the benefit they received, according to their location. From the fact that the saloons were closed practically for two days during the Carnival period on account of the election, it was hard for the proprietors of them to say just what effect the fair had upon their business.

The restaurants—and there are now three first class ones in the city—did a land office business during the Carnival period. The hotels also did good business, but upon a demoralized and unsatisfactory scale. The net results were, however, good.

The wholesale and retail hardware men say they did a good business and have no complaint.

Of course the Carnival brought demoralization to some extent in all lines and for that reason it was objectionable to many. Taken as a whole, it's a toss up with even odds as to whether the people did or did not like the Carnival.

LOCAL DOTS.

— For lack of support from the business interests of the city the Florence, S. C. carnival has been abandoned.

— The announcement of Mr. Jno. H. Kuck in regard to the receipt of a large consignment of imported wines will be read with interest in another column. Samples are free at his place.

— A meeting of the Pythian Carnival Executive Committee and the Chairman of all sub-Committees are requested to meet to-night in Castle Hall, over the Murchison National Bank, for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the late street fair.

German Last Night.

The Terpischorean Club danced a very pretty german in the Masonic Temple last night. Mr. Frank Shepard led and a large number of couples participated. Music was by Hollowbush's Orchestra, which gave its usual eminent satisfaction. The ball room was very attractively decorated.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 12.

A CROP TO COUNT ON.

There are few crops cultivated in this country about which there is so little generally known, even among farmers, and about which such erroneous ideas prevail as tobacco. The prevalent idea was that it could be grown to maturity only in a few States whereas it is grown in forty-two out of the forty-five States, some of the States where it was not thought of twenty years ago as a farm crop now being large producers of it. It was supposed that it could be profitably grown only south of the Ohio river on account of the favoring conditions of climate and slave labor. In our own State it was generally thought that it could be profitably grown only in a narrow strip of territory bordering on Virginia, while now it is grown all over the State and more is produced in Eastern North Carolina then there is in what was originally the tobacco belt, while the area of cultivation is increasing annually.

It has also crossed our Southern border and gone into South Carolina, where the area of cultivation is steadily increasing and where it is looked upon as one of the most valuable and profitable crops. The Charleston News and Courier was among the first, if not the first, to direct the attention of South Carolina farmers to this crop, and to stimulate it distributed free seed and printed instructions on the cultivation of the crop. In a recent issue it noted the success of two brothers, who concluded to try the experiment, with results thus narrated:

Tobacco buyers pronounce the product "as fine as can be made," and it is fine enough at any rate for all practical purposes. The account of sale sat Florence speaks for itself. One lot of 1,528 pounds netted $501.40, or a little over 32 cents a pound after paying commissions, auction fees, etc. Tobacco which sells at the rate of three pounds to the dollar is not a bad showing, as the Messrs. King write, to be made by "new men at the business." This was not all of their crop, however. They planted a crop of thirty acres; have sold $2,500 worth, lost $400 worth by fire, and have $700 or $800 worth on hand. This means a return of $3,600 from the thirty acres, or at the rate of $120 an acre. "Allowing for all losses and mistakes," they "have sold over $100 per acre," and at that rate the crop "pays larger returns than any crop than can be cultivated on the same land."

As the News and Courier remarks, there is no other crop grown in South Carolina which can show such results, from which it draws two conclusions, one of which is that this is a practical demonstration that the lands around Charleston, upon which little or no value has been put, may be made very valuable if turned into tobacco farms, and the other is that Charleston can and should become a great tobacco market. To make it this the News and Courier suggests building a railroad up the Neck towards Summerville to give an outlet for the crops grown and thus encourage the cultivation, and the opening of a canal from the headwaters of the Cooper to the Santee rivers with the same object. The land in the sections referred to are unproductive simply because they are inaccessible and lack transportation.

In a subsequent issue it made the following editorial reference to what tobacco is doing for the town of Dillon.

The Dillon Herald says that at least 95 per cent of the tobacco crop of the present year has been marketed; that "from present indications it is probable that an unusually large crop will be planted next year," and that "a crop that will turn loose over $300,000 in a town the size of Dillon in a single season cannot be exaggerated."

The News and Courier takes especial pleasure in the reports of the success of the tobacco growing industry in the State. When this newspaper began the distribution of tobacco seed and books of instruction as to how the crop should be cultivated, there were many doubting Thomases and the all cotton pundits proved that it was not possible to grow tobacco in South Carolina at a profit. The crop is growing more profitable every year in spite of their prophecies of disaster, and the area devoted to tobacco culture is steadily increasing. There ought to be a market in Charleston for the sale of tobacco grown in South Carolina. The establishment of tobacco warehouses here is worth the consideration of the Commercial Club.

We don't know how long tobacco has been cultivated around Dillon, or to what extent it is now cultivated, but a crop which "turns loose $300,000 annually in a town" is worthy of encouragement.

Of course Dillon has one or more warehouses. The News and Courier thinks there is such possibilities in the crop if the cultivation became general in the country tributary to Charleston, that it believes it would pay to build a trolley railroad to open the territory and give transportation to that city, and to open a canal connecting the Cooper and Santee rivers.

In view of the movement on foot to make Wilmington a tobacco market this is interesting, but we also have interesting object lessons nearer home, within our own State, showing what tobacco can do as a town builder and money maker. The writer of this remembers Winston less than thirty years ago a cross roads town, whose chief and only distinction was that it was the county seat, not from choice but from necessity, because the people of Salem would not permit the court house to be built on its territory, and therefore it was built across the line and became the center around which some dwellings and stores were built. Before it became a tobacco town it had about thirty houses. Now it is a modern city of nine or ten thousand people, wealthy and doing a business amounting to millions a year, a business the corner stone of which, so to speak, was and is tobacco. The Journal reports sales of leaf in the warehouses at $148,326 for the week before last and for the month of October at $570,176, over half a million dollars in one month, and the Journal remarks that planters still have the best of their tobacco in their barns, desiring to first dispose of the poorer grades while they are bringing fair prices. This money is paid out in cash by the banks of Winston for the leaf sold there. Of course it is not all spent there, but the business men of the city get a considerable portion of it and it all goes to add to the wealth of the country tributary to Winston. But Winston manufactures most of the tobacco bought there and thus the money paid out for leaf comes back increased several times.

Greenville is in our own section, nearer home. The tobacco growing industry is a comparatively new one for that section, but the sales for this year up to November 1st, as given by the Reflector, aggregate $1,075,915, money distributed among the farmers in the country tributary to Greenville. Then we have Wilson, Kinston, both of which handle more leaf than Greenville does, and have paid out more money for it. In addition to these are Rocky Mount, Nashville, Newbern, Whiteville, Lumberton, the sales of which in the same time would probably go in the aggregate considerably over a million dollars, making in all $4,000,000 or more distributed so far this season among the tobacco farmers.

More might be said, but there is enough in this to show that tobacco is a good crop for the farmers of this section to raise, and a good crop for the town that catches on and presents inducements as a market.

MR. BINGHAM BOUNCED.

Mr. Julian Bingham, collector of internal revenue in Alabama, has been bounced for showing too much "pernicious activity" in shutting negroes out from the Alabama Republican State Convention, and now the inference is that Mr. Julian Bingham, is not quite as much of a "lily white" (with the Republican annex) as he was.

We are not especially interested in Julian, and are not disposed to tender our condolence because he has lost his job, but the fact is they didn't tote fair with him. He is a victim of misplaced confidence. He probably didn't like the association with the negro contingent any better than many other white Republicans did but the probabilities are that he never would have shown the activity he is charged with in slamming the convention doors in the faces of colored delegates if he hadn't been encouraged by the precedent in North Carolina, and come to the canclusion that the game was understood and approved at Washington.

Senator Pritchard came direct from Oyster Bay to Greensboro, gave the freeze out order, saw it carried out, and then went to Birmingham, where the Alabama convention was held, and saw the freeze out there. It is perfectly natural under the circumstances that Julian Bingham came to the conclusion that it was all right and therefore an entirely safe thing to do to turn the colored brother down as Senator Pritchard had done in North Carolina, and therefore we conclude that he was a victim of misplaced confidence, whose foresight was not half as good as his hindsight. But why didn't they discover his "pernicious activity" sooner and bounce him before the election? Were they just waiting to see how the "lily white" game would pan out?

Since they have begun the bouncing business will they ignore North Carolina? Didn't any of the Federal office-holders have anything to do with the freeze out game in this State? Senator Pritchard didn't do it alone. He is running the federal office holding contingent in this State, and the probabilities are that there are several of that contingent who were quite as active in the door-shutting programme as Mr. Bingham, of Alabama, was. He should not be made the solitary scapegoat.

A Boston weather man predicts twenty-nine snow storms for that town during the coming Winter. With coal scarce, predictions of this kind are calculated to make the burghers who have any respect for weather prophets hot on the coal barons.

Cotton planters in Mississippi complain of a scarcity of labor as a result of which much cotton must remain in the fields. What becomes of all the "hands" taken from this State to Mississippi? Do they hang up in the towns to loaf."

A PICTURE

Of health, we say of a perfectly healthful woman, and it is a picture everyone loves to look upon. All the pictures of all the artists who have ever painted the glory and beauty of womanhood, are only copies and imitations of this picture.

Never artist mixed a color on his palette that can vie with the hues which tint a healthful woman's cheek. Why should this charm be sacrificed to sickness? It need not be save in rare cases. The general health of woman is so linked with the local womanly health that wasted cheek and sunken eye are in general but evidences of womanly diseases. Cure the diseases and the physical health is restored.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the ills of women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Mrs. Mary E. Lewis, of Tanner, Gilmer Co., W. Va., writes: "I shall always recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' for they cured me when doctors and other medicines failed. For fifteen years I suffered untold misery. When I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines, I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I could not lie down to sleep, and everything I ate would almost cramp me to death. Was very nervous and could hardly walk across the room. I only weighed ninety pounds when I commenced taking these medicines six years ago; now I weigh one hundred and forty pounds and am having better health than ever before. My friends all say they can hardly believe that I am the same person; after being sick so long I have changed to be robust and rosy cheeked."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

CAN THEY DODGE IT?

Senator Platt, of New York, and Senator Foraker, of Ohio, are quoted as saying that there will be no tariff revision or anti-trust legislation, as the Republicans take it for granted that the recent verdict at the polls was a popular endorsement of the Dingley tariff and of the trusts. They are probably right in so far that there will be no substantial tariff revision or anti-trust legislation, for whatever may be done in that line will be of little importance, just enough to make a pretence at doing something to show that all the talk by Republicans in the last campaign about tariff revision on protection lines and trust regulation was not a fake to fool the Republicans who demanded that something be done to lower the tariff and deprive the trusts of the power to extort money from the people.

Senators Platt and Foraker seem to ignore these promises and to have forgotten the swing 'round remarks by President Roosevelt on the trust question, and also the tariff revision and anti-trust planks in nearly all the Republican State platforms. The fact is the Republican leaders knowing that these would be issues, and dangerous ones, stole the Democratic thunder and played it for all it was worth. They played the party revision on protection lines just as soon as it could be done without disturbing business. That is what saved the party, and gave it the majority it will have in the next Congress. If they had gone upon the stump without any concessions or promises to the tariff reform, anti-trust element of the Republican party, they would have been whipped out of their boots and instead of only reducing the Republican majority about seventeen, the Democrats would have elected an overwhelming majority in the Congress.

New Mexico comes to the front with "the biggest tree" in the world. The last biggest, which is 109 feet in circumference, was discovered in California. But the Mexican tree, which is about 300 miles South of the city of Mexico, measures 45 feet more around, which entitles it to palm as the boss tree, so far.

Notwithstanding the higher prices received the exports of wheat from Argentina have decreased largely in the past three years, now being but little over a third of what they were three years ago. The wheat growers seem to have been turning their attention to cattle raising as more profitable.

A bill has been introduced in the Georgia Legislature prohibiting citizens of that State from toting without special permit artillery that weighs less than seven pounds and measures less than eighteen inches in length. The fellow thus equipped might be considered always loaded.

— Troy Examiner: Some of our most successful farmers are thinking of trying a crop of tobacco next year. They speak of building a tobacco warehouse at Troy, in order to establish a home market for this product. His wife seeing that he appeared to be sinking called one of the men who was at work in the yard, who as soon as he reached him called another one, but he died almost immediately. Mr. Cole was about sixty years old.

The family had shortly before returned from preaching at Stony Hill, and while Mrs. Milton was preparing dinner it seems that her little 8-year-old son, Louis, was entertaining young Kirk by showing a gun to him. The gun was a single barrel, breech loading and hammerless, and Louis was evidently explaining how to "snap" the gun, when it suddenly exploded, the entire contents of the shell piercing the right forehead just above and between the temple and eyebrow, killing him instantly.

PHOSPHORESCENT OCEAN.

Little Gelatinous Organisms Which Create the Appearance.

A milky opalescence, permeating the entire sea for immense distances bounded only by the horizon, is a somewhat rare phenomenon. It appears quite suddenly, lasts perhaps for several hours and passes away as rapidly as it came, and this without apparent cause. At midnight we had the singular whiteness enveloping the sea, while the more brilliant kinds of phosphorescence shone in the midst of flashing green, yellow or bluish lights, as the case might be—a gorgeous nocturnal display.

During these hours my surface trawl net drifted astern of the ship. The water was alive with countless myriads of little gelatinous sacs measuring one-sixth of an inch in length—delicate tunicate organisms which required the aid of a microscope to reveal their perfect structure. A few specimens placed in an empty meat tin in a darkened cabin could be seen indeed with the naked eyes careening madly around in the salt water, each one glowing with that peculiar opalescent light which saturated the entire sea for so many miles. It was a small species of salpa, nearly related to a much larger kind on the side of which the late Professor Moseley wrote his name with his finger, the signature being visible on the dead body throughout the night, glowing with the brightest phosphorescent light.—Cornhill Magazine.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of two to four points, and ruled generally weak. At one time there was a loss of ten to fifteen points apparent. The market was finally steady at a decline of six to twelve points. The weakness in cotton to-day was scarcely to be accounted for by the more legitimate influences, which developed no new phases that were more bearish than heretofore apparent. The decline in prices were more directly the result of continued liquidation under the force of stop orders. There war, on the other hand, no other evidence of substantial support; the market depending on covering for buyers. The liquidation of long accounts was said to include a heavy New Orleans interest which sold in the local market. Crop accounts continued generally favorable with temperatures ranging from 44 to 72 in the cotton belt. The local market was weakend by a revised and increased crop estimate by a Memphis prognosticator of note who now is reckoning upon a crop of 11,700,000 bales. The decline in cotton has now been something like a cent, and the real sentiment reflects some disposition to buy on the theory of a reaction from this point. As a rule, however, local sentiment remains bearish, the generally favorable climatic conditions for maturing the top crop offsetting all other consideration in the local mind.

NEW YORK, Nov 11.—Cotton quiet at 8¼c; net receipts 50 bales; gross receipts 5,417 bales; stock 63,133 bales.

Spot cotton closed quiet; middling uplands 8.30c; middling gulf 8 55c; sales 574 bales.

OFFICE OF D. H. HARDY, Secretary of State, AUSTIN, TEX., Nov. 21, 1900.

I have found Dr. Moffett's TEETHINA a splendid remedy and aid for my teething children. When my oldest boy was a teething child, every succeeding day warned us that we would inevitably lose him. I happened upon TEETHINA, and began at once administering it to him, and his improvement was marked in 24 hours, and from that day on he recuperated. I have constantly kept it and used it since with my children, and have taken great pleasure in sounding its praises to all mothers of young children. I found it invaluable even after the teething period was passed.

THE SAUERKRAUT PEDDLER.

A Character Common to the German Section of New York.

The regular and popular visitor to the German inns and taverns of the east side is the sauerkraut man. He brings his calling with him from the old country and finds a more profitable field in New York than in Berlin or Hamburg. His equipment is quite curious. He wears a blue or white apron running from his neck nearly to the ankles, and from his shoulders is suspended a circular metal box which goes half around his waist. It has three large compartments, two of which are surrounded by hot water. In one are well cooked frankfurter sausages and in the other thoroughly boiled sauerkraut. In the third compartment is potato salad. He carries in his hand a basket in which are small plates and steel forks. One sausage and a generous spoonful of sauerkraut and potato salad cost 5 cents. All three articles are of good quality, well cooked and seasoned. He finds his best customers in the bowling alleys, where the exertion demanded by the game produces large appetites. Next to these are the taverns which do not supply food with their drink. Last of all are the halls and meeting rooms where different societies assemble. His nightly stock consists of fifty sausages, seven pounds of sauerkraut and as much more of salad. On bad evenings he takes only half as much stock as on fair ones. Some of the more fortunate peddlers have arrangements with clubs which pay them a very fair profit upon their goods. Others are free lances who visit every place where they think they can effect a sale.

The metal boxes are very ingenious and are made in Germany. The metal is some variety of pewter, and the fitting of the compartments and of the entire affair to the body is very accurate. The covers are so well hinged and snug at the edges that when the owner falls down he is not liable to spill any of the contents. The contrivance costs some $3 in Germany, and about $5 in New York. A few of the peddlers appeal to educated palates and carry with them cervelat, bock, reh, leberwurst and vienna, as well as frankfurters. These fancy sausages usually bring 10 cents instead of the regulation 5.

The forks are washed after the customer has finished his little meal, and from repeated cleansing and use are as bright as silver. The plates, on the other hand, are so banged and bruised that they might be easily mistaken for crackle wear.—New York Post.

The Wrath of the Bee.

At the end of winter most hives have exhausted their stores and become dangerous. When this is the case, woe to him who touches the hives. Smoke has lost its spell, and you shall scarce have emitted the first puffs before 20,000 acrid and enraged demons will dart from within the walls, overwhelm your hands, blind your eyes and blacken your face. No living being except, they say, the bear and the sphinx atropos, can resist the rage of the mailed legions. Above all, do not struggle. The fury would overtake the neighboring colonies. There is no means of safety other than instant flight through the bushes. The bee is less rancorous, less implacable, than the wasp and rarely pursues her enemy. If flight be impossible, absolute immobility alone might calm her or put her off the scent. She fears and attacks any too sudden movement, but at once forgives that which no longer stirs.—Harper's.

A Safe Age.

The insuring of one's life is one of those things which one is most apt to put off There are few, however, who postpone what ought to be the inevitable until so late a period in life as did the tough old smack owner of Grimsby. When he presented himself at the insurance office, he was naturally asked his age. His reply was, "Ninety-four." "Why, my good man, we cannot insure you," said the company. "Why not?" he demanded. "Why, you are ninety-four years of age." "What of that?" the old man cried. "Look at statistics, and they will tell you that fewer men die at ninety-four than at any other age."—London Business Illustrated.

Their Branch of Service.

"To what branch of the military service do captains of industry belong?" asked the recognized yet surviving joker of the party.

"I give it up," replied his victim wearily.

"To the artillery, because they're all 'big guns.' See? Ha, ha, ho, ho!"—Syracuse Herald.

Cool Trees.

It is not shade alone that makes it cooler under a tree in the summer. The coolness of the tree itself helps, for its temperature is about 45 degrees F. at all times, as that of the human body is a fraction more than 98 degrees. So a clump of trees cools the air as a piece of ice cools the water in a pitcher.

Rasping.

Napoleon's Talisman.

Louis Napoleon, who believed himself, even amid exile and poverty, destined to that throne which the prestige of his name and his cunning coup d'etat enabled him to reach, was not without his superstitions. In his will he says, "With regard to my son, let him keep as a talisman the seal I used to wear attached to my watch."

This talisman had no power to turn aside the fatal spears of the Zulus, and the young Napoleon met a sadder fate than his father's worst fears could have imagined for him.

Nasal Catarrh.

A remedy highly recommended for nasal catarrh is a teaspoonful of boracic acid powder and a saltspoonful of salt dissolved in a half pint of boiling water. Apply this three times a day, lukewarm, by pouring a little into the palm of the hand and drawing it through the nostrils.

The Tired Foot.

A lady was watching a potter at his work whose one foot was kept with a never sickening speed turning his swift wheel round" while the other rested patiently on the ground. When the lady said to him in sympathizing tone, "How tired your foot must be!" the man raised his eyes and said: "No, ma'am; it isn't the foot that works that's tired. It's the foot that stands. That's it."

If you want to keep your strength, use it. If you want to get tired, do nothing. As a matter of fact, we all know that the last man to give a helping hand to any new undertaking is the man who has plenty of time on his hands. It is the man and woman who are doing the most who are always willing to do a little more."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Man and the Wave.

Once upon a time a man was telling a tale of woe that unveiled his matrimonial experience.

"It was all on account of a little dainty handkerchief," he said. "The first time that I saw the girl and before we had been introduced she waved that bit of lace at me, and I was carried away. It was a fall in love and then matrimony. But, alas, that delicate handkerchief was no index to the girl's nature, and I found myself wrecked on the sea of matrimony."

Moral.—A man may be carried away by a wave and wrecked without going near the water.—New York Herald.

Wanted a Lower Key.

Spatts—My love, I wish you would alter the key of your voice.

Mrs. Spatts—What's the matter with it?

Spatts—Oh, nothing; only from the expression of Eliza Jane's face after our recent argument I'm certain it fits every keyhole in the house.—Town and Country.

MRS. MAY DOHSE,

CHICAGO, ILL.

CONDUCTRESS (President) of the Marys of the Lake, Catholic Order of Foresters.

10 Chestnut Place,
CHICAGO, ILL., March 12, 1902.

I have for years heard good things of your Wine of Cardui, but never really knew how excellent a remedy it is, until last fall when I became suddenly chilled when I was out and not clad warm enough. Unfortunately it happened at a time when every woman should use extra precaution against colds. As a consequence the functions of Nature stopped and although I thought little of it at the time I soon found that it was much more serious than I had anticipated. I did not seek medical assistance until over a month had passed and I had found no relief. I had terrible cramps and pains, intense backache and dizzy spells. The doctor said inflammation had set in and prescribed for me. But nothing seemed to help me. Reading your Almanac I soon became interested in Wine of Cardui. I then remembered hearing some of my lady friends telling how grand it was. I then dismissed my doctor and decided to try Wine of Cardui. I took it for three weeks and to my great joy I found relief. Gradually the inflammation passed away. I became once more regular and suffered no more pains, whatever. I am sure there are hundreds of women who are daily suffering as I did, who do not know which way to turn for relief. To these I would say: "Stop paying doctors' bills and taking medicine you know nothing of; stop letting the doctors experiment on you. Half of them don't know what really ails their patients. Stop wasting your strength and your money and take Wine of Cardui. After you have taken one bottle of Wine of Cardui you will feel so much better and you are sure to be cured if human skill can cure. It is cheap to make the experiment anyhow and take my word for it, you will not regret it." I am glad to give you this unsolicited testimonial, glad to do my little to show my appreciation and only hope it may be the means of advising some poor suffering women, and may help them from daily misery to health and happiness.

May Dohse

SO delicately poised are the organs of womanhood that even slight neglect and exposure result in serious trouble. Few women regard first menstrual irregularities serious enough to require medical attention. Consequently from little irregularities serious troubles grow. Women are usually too modest to tell these troubles to a doctor. Wine of Cardui can be taken in the privacy of your home. If your trouble is just beginning you have no excuse not to take this remedy today. It is easy to take and there is no publicity in the treatment. If your case has been long running and doctors cannot help you, read what Mrs. Dohse says and remember that thousands of so-called "hopeless" cases have been cured by Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui will completely cure nine out of ten cases and it will benefit every case of female troubles.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 12.

DEMORALIZATION ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Heavy Liquidation After a Substantial Recovery — Unloading of Amalgamated Copper the Cause.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—There was a fresh outbreak of demoralization on the Stock Exchange this afternoon after quite a substantial recovery had been achieved this morning. The manner in which the market acted at the recovery was such as to give some preparation for the renewal of heavy liquidation. It is a maxim of professional traders, after a day of such violent declines as those of yesterday, to buy stocks and cover short contracts. This was the course pursued in this morning's market, resulting in advances of from one to two points in the majority of leading active stocks on the list, but the absorption power of the market showed a steady decrease as the advance in prices proceeded. Commission houses were practically idle and reported that no orders were being received from outside sources. The market wavered uncertainly throughout the noon day period and even stood with apparent equanimity the early stages of the violent liquidation in Amalgamated Copper. The seemingly endless outpouring of this stock eventually undermined the market. The identity of the capitalists in control of this corporation with those controlling the Standard Oil Company and the enormous prestige carried by this group in financial affairs caused a deep significance to be attached to the unloading in Amalgamated Copper. As a consequence, enormous liquidation was renewed throughout the list. Some of the stocks which took a leading place in the morning recovery were the most acute sufferers in the late weakness. Just at the close St. Paul made a spectacular tumble to 176, making a loss of 5⅝ from last night. This movement was accepted as additional corroboration of the unfavorable view of market values taken by the financial group which is above referred to. There was no new development to account for the weakness and it was considered to be due simply to the desire on the part of speculative holders to lighten their load further, pending the exigencies upon the money market which must be met between now and the first of the year. There was evidence of particularly heavy liquidation in Southern Pacific. In Northwestern there was a break of 9 points, Lackawanna 9½, Tennessee Coal 5, and United States Realty, one of the newly launched specialties, 4½.

The demoralized tone of the market set afloat various rumors of financial difficulties. The rally in the late dealings, which reached a point in a few active stocks, indicated a considerable part played by the bears in the early selling. But this demand was freely fed and the market broke at the last under an overwhelming flood of selling orders, making the closing very weak. Many stocks ended lower than the lowest prices of yesterday. Amalgamated Copper broke through its previous low record of 58½ and placed its record three points lower, closing only one-half above that point. The bond market was more mildly affected than stocks. Local sales par value $3,215,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call. Total sales of stocks to-day were 983,500 shares.

TRAGEDY IN KANSAS CITY.

A Prominent Occulist Shot and Killed in His Office By a Patient—The Murderer Then Killed Himself.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—Dr. W. H. Kimberlin, a pioneer citizen and a prominent occulist, was shot and killed in his office in this city this afternoon by John Scanlon, formerly a policeman, who then shot and killed himself.

Dr. Kimberlin was shot three times, and both men must have died almost instantly.

Scanlon, who is the brother of a prominent local politician, asserted, it is said, that Kimberlin caused him to lose his eyesight. Scanlon left a note on the dresser, in which he had written "notify my brother at City Hall. I did this because he destroyed my eyes."

Scanlon had been receiving treatment from Dr. Kimberlin for about two weeks. He entered the physician's office unseen, and it is not known how long he had been there. Another patient, who was waiting in an outside office, said:

"I heard Scanlon go into the doctor's private office, and I heard him and the doctor talking. There was no quarrel or loud words, however, until Dr. Bimberlin cried out:

"Oh, don't John!"

The shots followed instantly. A bullet came through the wall and passed over the chair from which I had jumped when the shooting began."

BUSINESS MEN OF NEW YORK CITY.

Formal Dedication of the New Chamber of Commerce Building.

A DISTINGUISHED GATHERING.

Oration By Former President Cleveland. Address By President Roosevelt. Ceremonies Followed By a Banquet Last Night.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—With the President and a former president of the United States as its guests of honor, and with representatives of foreign governments and other distinguished persons present, the New York Chamber of Commerce formally dedicated its building in this city to-day. The proceedings were opened with a prayer of dedication by Rev. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity church. An address of welcome by Morris K. Jesup, president of the chamber, followed, and then the oration of the day was delivered by former President Grover Cleveland. Mr. Cleveland said in part:

"It need not surprise us if the popular estimate of this business organization should fail to take into account all that it has done to promote high and patriotic purposes, not always related, in a narrow sense to commerce. No associated body of our citizens felt more deeply and effectively the throbbing of patriotism and devotion to country when our government was threatened by armed rebellion; its protest and aid was immediately forthcoming when afterwards an insidious attack was made upon financial integrity through an attempted debasement of our currency; from no quarter has a more earnest and insistent demand been heard for the adjustment of international disputes by arbitration; its espousal of the cause of business education among our people has been hearty and practical; it has advocated enlarged reciprocity of business relations between nations, and the removal of their vexatious hindrances; and last, and by no means least, it has promptly and with an open hand relieved distress and alleviated disaster."

When Mr. Cleveland rose to speak he was greeted with loud cheers from the assemblage and several times in his speech he was interrupted by applause.

At the conclusion of Mr. Cleveland's address Morris K. Jesup, president of the chamber, announced that President Roosevelt, although reserving his address for the banquet this evening, had consented to say a few words. As President Roosevelt stepped forward to address the chamber the whole assemblage rose and cheered. He spoke as follows:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen: As I am to speak to you this evening, I shall now simply say a word of greeting to you and to your guests. I have been asked here as the chief executive of the nation, and so I can speak not merely on your behalf, but on behalf of our people as a whole in greeting and thanking for their presence here these representatives of foreign countries who have done us the honor and pleasure of being present to-day. (Applause). I greet the ambassador (turning to Mr. Cambon) whose approaching departure, we so sincerely regret, the ambassador to whom, on his advent we extended such hearty greeting, and especially representatives of those great friendly civilized nations with whom we intend to be knit even closer by ties of commercial and social good will in the future (turning to the Russian and British ambassadors and Prince Henry von Piess).

"And now gentlemen, having greeted your guests on behalf of you, I greet you in the name of the people not merely because you stand for commercial success but because this body has been able to show that the greatest commercial success can square with the immutable and eternal laws of decent and right living and of fair dealing between man and man."

The demonstration as the President concluded ended with three cheers.

The day's ceremonies in connection with the dedication of the new home of the Chamber of Commerce were brought to a close to-night by a banquet given by the Chamber in honor of the guests of the occasion. President Roosevelt delivered the principal address of the evening.

THE BANKERS ASSOCIATION.

Convention in New Orleans—Largest Meeting Ever Held—Questions to Be Considered at To-Day's Session.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—The 28th annual convention of the American Bankers' Association assembled in Tulane Hall to-day, beginning a three days' session. This is the largest meeting of the association ever held and the largest aggregation of financiers ever gathered at one time in the history of the country. Up to a late hour to-night there had been 1,500 delegates registered and nearly 500 visitors and ladies. Several special trains, a dozen private cars and every regular train for the past three days has been engaged in bringing the crowd which has taken complete possession of the St. Charles hotel, the headquarters, and overflowed into every hotel in the city.

At the opening session there was prayer by Rev. Dr. Beverly Warner, and addresses of welcome were delivered by Acting Mayor William Mehle, City Attorney Samuel L. Gilmore, on behalf of the local bankers. President Herrick replied to the welcomes and delivered his annual address.

The asset currency and branch banking questions will be taken up to-morrow. A resolution has been submitted by A. J. Frame, of Milwaukee, opposing both projects, which has already met the approval of a majority of the delegates. Congressman Fowler, chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee of the House, will argue in favor of them, and explain the purposes of his currency bill.

The two leading candidates for the next convention are Seattle and San Francisco.

A number of delegates to the Federation of Labor convention arrived today, but the main body, including President Gompers, will come to-morrow and Thursday.

The Daughters of the Confederacy began their session to-night with a reception at Memorial Hall.

In Richmond, Va., yesterday, while Col. John Murphy, proprietor of Murphy's hotel; his daughter, Miss Madeline Murphy; his son, Mr. John Murphy, Jr., and Miss Kathryne Wilson, of Philadelphia, were out driving in a carriage, the vehicle collided with a street car and all its occupants were thrown out and more or less bruised.

RAILROAD COMPANIES ANSWER COMPLAINTS.

Deny Allegations Made By the Kentucky R. R. Commission and Dispute Interstate Commission's Jurisdiction

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Several more of the railroads which were made defendants in the complaint made by the Kentucky Railroad Commission, charging a merger of interests which threatened to place the entire Southern territory under the domination of a single firm, filed their answer with the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day. The answers in the main, like those of the Illinois Central and Texas Pacific, filed yesterday, deny the allegations. The Louisville and Nashville railroad, however, goes further and its answer styles the complaint a "mere fishing bill," and disputes the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission over such matters. The Louisville and Nashville's answer says the commission has no right nor title to institute or prosecute the complaint; has no jurisdiction to require the filing of copies of contracts or arrangements with other common carriers except such as relate to the traffic affected by the interstate commerce act, which, the railroad says, does not apply to the contracts, arrangements, etc., referred to in the complaint; nor jurisdiction to inquire into personal transactions of individual stockholders, nor to ascertain whether any particular individual or firm has acquired a majority or any other proportion of the capital stock of a railroad. The answer denies that J. P. Morgan & Co. have acquired control of a majority of the Louisville and Nashville stock and says the commission has no jurisdiction to inquire into the motives or objects of any one selling or purchasing shares, nor whether the stock of the Southern is controlled by a voting trust with Morgan & Co. at its head.

The Atlantic Coast Line railroad admits contracting for the Morgan company to purchase by December 31 next, and that the Morgan company has contracted to deliver to the Atlantic Coast Line by that date 306,000 shares of the capital stock of the Louisville and Nashville for $50,000,000, and that the L. & N. has assented thereto.

The Southern Railway Company, the Southern Railway Company in Kentucky, and the Southern Railway Company of Indiana, in a joint answer deny that the two last named lines are under the "management" of the Southern. They admit that about June 21, 1900, Morgan & Company and the Southern Railway made an agreement with practically all of the holders of bonds secured on properties then belonging to the Louisville, Evansville and the St. Louis Consolidated Railroad Company, whereby it was proposed to reorganize that road, to vest its control in the Southern. This plan was executed by a foreclosure sale. It is also admitted that in pursuance of an agreement the Southern jointly with the L. & N. has acquired 95,983 shares of the capital stock of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railroad Company.

The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific not only denies the jurisdiction of the commission, but submits that there is no law of the United States or of the States mentioned in the complaint, "which forbids the same person or firm to hold stock in two or more railways."

THE COAL OPERATORS' REPLY TO MINE WORKERS

Presented to the Coal Strike Commission. Demand for Increase in Wages Denounced as Unreasonable.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The reply of President George F. Baer, of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal Company, to the charges of President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, which has been presented to the anthracite coal strike commission, was to-day given to the public. Mr. Baer makes no reference to Mr. Mitchell as the president of the miners' organization, but refers to him simply as an individual. Taking up the specifications to Mr. Mitchell's charge seriatim, Mr. Baer first admits that his company owns thirty-seven collieries and that before the strike it employed 26,829 people. Following is a brief summary of the response to Mr. Mitchell's other specifications:

Second. The demand for 20 per cent. increase in wages on piece work is denounced as arbitrary, unreasonable and unjust.

The company contends that after making all necessary allowances for different conditions, that the rate of wages paid for the mining of anthracite coal is as high as that paid at the bituminous fields.

Third. The company denies that the present rate of wages is lower than is paid in other occupations in the same locality and controlled by like conditions.

Fourth and fifth. Mr. Baer denies that the earnings of the anthracite workers are less than average earnings for other occupations requiring skill and training, and also the charge that the earnings are insufficient because of the dangerous character of work in the anthracite mines.

Sixth. This specification made by Mr. Mitchell is referred to as too vague for specific answer, but in a general way it is stated that the anthracite regions are among the most prosperous in the United States.

Seventh. The company pronounces as unjust and inequitable the demand for a reduction of 20 per cent. in hours of labor without a reduction of earnings for time employes, and this demand is pronounced impractical. In this connection the following statement is made:

"Because of the injury to the mines by the strike of the United Mine Workers the cost of producing coal has been greatly increased and a temporary advance in price was made by this company, but it will be impracticable to continue such increase when mining operations become normal."

Eighth. Mr. Baer says that his company has no disagreement with any of its employes about the weighing of coal, because this "is usually determined by measurement and not by weight."

Ninth. Replying to the fourth demand made by Mitchell, Mr. Baer says since the advent of the United Mine Workers' organization into the anthracite fields, business conditions there have been intolerable; that the output of the mines has decreased; that discipline has been destroyed; that strikes have been of almost daily occurrence; that men have worked when and as they pleased, and that the cost of running has been greatly increased. He also takes the position that the jurisdiction of the commission is limited to the conditions named by the coal company presidents, which excludes the United Mine Workers from any recognition in the proceedings. He says, however, that "when a labor organization limited to anthracite mine workers is created which shall obey the law, respect the right of every man to work and honestly co-operate with employers, a trade agreemont may become practicable."

ACQUITTAL IN THE MOLINEUX CASE.

Prisoner Set at Liberty After Spending Nearly Four Years in Prison.

ONCE CONDEMNED TO DEATH.

Great Crowd in the Court Room—More Women Than Men—The Verdict Greeted With Applause—Molineux Was Unconcerned.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Roland B. Molineux was set at liberty to-day after spending nearly four years in prison and being once condemned to death and twice placed on trial for his life for the murder of Mrs. Catherine J. Adams.

But thirteen minutes sufficed for the jury to reach a verdict of acquittal at the close of a trial that has lasted four weeks; the first trial which resulted in Molineux's conviction and sentence having been prolonged for about three months.

The verdict, which was confidently anticipated, was greeted with an instantly suppressed outbreak of applause, Justice Lambert having delivered a stern admonition that no demonstration would be permitted.

Molineux, who was brought into court as soon as it was known that the jury had agreed, was apparently as unconcerned as he has been throughout the trial and gave no evidence of emotion when the words that established his innocence were pronounced. His aged father, General Molineux, was deeply affected and could with difficulty respond to the greetings of friends who pressed forward to offer their congratulations.

Immediately after the rendering of the verdict, the prisoner was formally discharged from custody and left the court room with his father and counsel. On passing out of the building, the three were cheered by a great crowd that gathered in anticipation of the acquittal. After removing his effects from the Tombs, Molineux went to his father's home in Brooklyn, where he was again cheered by a large crowd.

More than a thousand men and women and there were more women than men, crowded the corridors of the Criminal Court building before 9 o'clock this morning and fought for admission to the court room. After the usual preliminaries, Assistant District Attorney Osborne resumed his summing up.

Judge Lambert in his charge summed up the admitted facts in the case the sending of the package from the general postoffice, its receipt at the Knickerbocker Athletic Club and its administration to Mrs. Adams by Cornish who received it at the club.

"It is necessary," he said, "for the State to prove that the defendant sent this package; that it was received by Cornish and innocently administered to Mrs. Adams before you can find this defendant guilty. It is for you to say if the necessary evidence has been submitted.

"One of the most important efforts of the prosecution has been to connect this defendant with the address on that poison package. The State has attempted to do that by witnesses from banks and by witnesses presented to you as handwriting experts. It is contended by the prosecution that the defendant wrote that address. Unless that is proved the defendant cannot be convicted of any crime. So you see that is the central portion of the evidence, that is a fact the State is compelled to prove."

Justice Lambert recited the evidence of the handwriting experts on both sides, and said:

"I shall not discuss any of that testimony. The law places the burden of that discussion upon you.

"If the opinion of the experts are not controlling upon you, if the people's case stood on the question of handwriting, it should be dismissed. But if the contention of the prosecution is sustained in other respects you may consider the handwriting.

"Did the defendant obtain the Tiffany box from Tiffany and Company? There is no evidence here that he did, but evidence has been submitted that he had an account there. The most that can be said on that point is that he had the opportunity.

"Did the defendant have the bottle of bromo? He says he did not. There is no evidence here to contradict it, but it was in the box he had the opportunity to obtain."

Coming to the consideration of the bottle-holder in which the poison was sent, Justice Lambert said that Miss Miller and Huff agreed that Molineux was not the purchaser.

"But," he said, "it is my duty to tell you that no evidence has been presented here to connect this defendant with the holder."

"Now the question is, did the defendant procure the poison. The defendant told you he never made the poison. Upon the theory that he did not send the poison package, that is reasonable enough, but if you find from other facts that he did send the package, then you may take into consideration the fact of the facility with which he could have obtained the poison."

Justice Lambert declared that the agreement made by Koch, the letter box man, to sell his story exclusively to receive his pay, when he swore in the actual trial to the truth of his story, was a felony. "Another branch of this case to which I desire to refer is this: The defendant had a perfect right to try and point out the man he believes to be guilty of the crime of which he stands accused, but he is not bound in his own defence to present sufficient evidence to convince you of his guilt. He is entitled to the benefit of any doubt he may arouse."

"If you believe the testimony of Professor Vulte, of Columbia College," he said, "Molineux could not have mailed that package. The defence claims that Cornish was there. Then there is the testimony of Mrs. Stephenson. I am not going to discuss that. If that woman told the truth, that ends this case and eliminates Molineux; if she saw Cornish mail that package this defendant is not guilty. It is for you to investigate this matter and decide for yourselves."

At the close of the charge Mr. Black said he had no requests to make. The Assistant District Attorney had several which the court said he had already told before the jury.

Mr. Osborne had nothing more to say and Justice Lambert asked ex-Governor Black if he had anything to say against Mr. Osborne's proposition that the jury take the handwriting exhibits to their room.

"I think," Mr. Black said, "that that would be giving undue prominence to the handwriting testimony.

"You object then?" queried the court. "That settles it." The jurors cannot have the exhibits."

The jury retired at 3:15.

In exactly thirteen minutes after the jury had retired word was brought to the court room that a verdict had been reached. Court officers shouted for order and a hurry call was sent for Justice Lambert, who was not to be found in his chambers. It was 3:28 when the notice was received and it was 3:45 when Justice Lambert took his seat. Molineux, who had been brought into court on the first notice from the jury room, sat calm and confident as ever.

Bartow S. Weeks, of his counsel, leaned across the rail and whispered to him, "It's all right. The time tells us that."

"I never doubted it," Molineux replied.

The old general was far more agitated than his son and it was evident that the suspense was very hard upon him.

As soon as Justice Lambert took his seat he notified the audience that there must be no demonstration and then instructed the clerk to put the question to the jury.

"Not guilty," said the foreman, in reply to the formal inquiry, and Molineux, who had been standing to receive the verdict, sank back in his chair. There was a burst of applause, but it was speedily quelled by the court officers.

Justice Lambert ordered the court cleared, and told the jurors to remain in their seats until it was cleared. When, after counsel of both sides had congratulated each other and the jury and had thanked the court, Justice Lambert ordered the formal discharge of Molineux. A crowd of at least a thousand followed, cheering General Molineux and his son as they left the court room with Messrs. Olcott and Weeks. Former Governor Black, who reached the sidewalk some minutes later, received an even greater ovation than had greeted Molineux. General Molineux, when asked for an expression of opinion on the verdict, wrote and signed for all his reporter friends the following:

"The struggle is over, the battle done,
And might has lost, but right has won."

From the Criminal Court building Molineux went to the city prison. In making his way to his old cell, and thence to the front entrance, he traversed a considerable portion of both the old and the new prison, and everywhere he went the news of his acquittal went too, and the prisoners cheered him. He went through the women's department, where there were many who cheered him.

Molineux, accompanied by General Molineux and two of his attorneys, entered a carriage, and was driven away. About three thousand persons, cheering and shouting, surrounded the carriage and greatly delayed its departure. The keepers of the Tombs prison came out and shook hands with Molineux and many people waved handkerchiefs from the windows in the street.

Cecil Molineux, after shaking hands with his brother, stood weeping on the steps of the Tombs. Molineux himself was smiling and jubilant.

ALAN G. MASON DISCHARGED.

Man Accused of the Murder of Clara A. Morton—Perry, the Negro Witness, Charged With the Crime.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 11.—The discharge of Alan G. Mason, the Boston club man, accused of the murder of Clara A. Morton at Waverly a week ago last Saturday night, was ordered by Judge Charles Almy, of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex, to-day. The government lawyer announced that an investigation had failed to disclose evidence sufficient to hold the accused man, and ordered the discharge of Mason.

Almost immediately, in the same court, George O. L. Perry, a young negro who yesterday was held as a witness against Mason, was charged with the murder of Miss Morton. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded without bail for a hearing Nov. 18th.

After his release Mason held an informal reception, and after a short time was driven to his home in Boston.

Before Perry was taken back to jail a number of persons were permitted to have a look at him. One of the witnesses in the Mason case, Miss Albertson, who is employed at a Waverly restaurant, identified Perry as the negro whom she saw in Waverly on the night of the assault upon Miss Morton. While he was being looked at Perry grew impatient and angry. He cursed Nemser, the pawnbroker, who had just declared that Perry was the person who sold him the watches of Miss McPhee and Miss Morton, and threatened the police with vengeance. Although Perry is accused of murder, the police feel certain that he had an accomplice. They believe there is another and older negro involved, of whom they have the name and history.

GAS EXPLOSION AT A FIRE IN NEW YORK.

Thirty-Nine Persons Injured — Several Severely Hurt—Damage By the Fire and Explosion Was Slight.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—An explosion of illuminating gas in the cellar of the seven-story double tenement house on Avenue C, this afternoon, wrecked a store on the ground floor and injured thirty-nine persons, several being severely hurt. Among the injured were fourteen firemen and one policeman. Those most severely injured were: Battalion Chief William Guerin, Fireman John Gough and Policeman John A. Darrow.

The explosion followed a slight fire, caused, it is said, by a plumber who was working in the cellar.

When the firemen, led by Chief Jurin, entered the cellar it was found to be charged with gas from a melted lead connection, and a moment later an explosion occurred enveloping the men in flames and blowing out the front of the store overhead. A shower of debris was hurled into the crowd watching the fire, and many were struck with fragments of glass and splintered wood. About twenty persons were taken to the hospital. The firemen who were in the cellar succeeded in making their escape, all suffering more or less from burns and cuts. The damage by the fire and explosion was slight.
